Your support gave Kirsten's family a brighter future.

Kirsten is a proud veteran, having been deployed into war zones several times. After completing two tours, Kirsten decided that she wanted to settle down and start a family. She had spent most of her early 20's traveling and in active combat zones, so she wanted a big change in her life.

After getting married, Kirsten started her family and soon had 4 young children. While her marriage was great at first, her husband began to change as their children got older. His patience got thinner and he was prone to yelling. While Kirsten didn't like the idea of yelling as a parent, she thought they could work through the issues.

The first night Kirsten's husband hit their oldest daughter, she took all four kids and went to stay with her parents. She was shocked that the father of her children would do such a thing. But after a few days had gone by, she decided to make it work with him. Divorce seemed like such a huge and scary step to take so quickly.

My children and I found safe shelter from abuse, thanks to you. Our family was able to start over and build a new life. I am so deeply thankful."

When Kirsten came home, everything was different. Her husband threatened that if she ever left him again he would hurt the children. He kept a tracker on her cellphone, never let her be alone with the kids, and was verbally and physically abusive. For a few weeks the shock, embarrassment, and fear kept Kirsten trapped. She felt in a state of panic and struggled to plan for the future as she tried to keep her family together.

After a month Kirsten knew it needed to end, so she set plans in motion to leave safely. She called A New Leaf's Maricopa County Domestic Violence Hotline and scheduled an intake so that she could stay in shelter with her children. When her husband was away for the night on a work trip, Kirsten packed everything she could fit in her car and left with her four children.

She entered A New Leaf's Faith House Domestic Violence Shelter that night, and in the morning met with her own personal advocate. Together, Kirsten and her advocate enrolled her oldest daughter in school and obtained childcare for her three younger children. Within a week Kirsten found a new full-time job that would provide enough money for her to achieve independence.

Kirsten saved money for their new home and began to pay off some small debts so she would be able to keep up with bills. She used many tools she learned from financial literacy classes offered at the shelter to help survivors transition to safe housing.

After working with her advocate on finding affordable housing, Kirsten found subsidized housing for veterans that would help her afford rent. After several months of hard work, saving, and planning Kirsten and her children successfully moved into their new apartment. She is now able to provide for her children, keep a stable home, and will no longer live in constant fear for her children's safety, or her own.
